

From Our Readers

Colorado Lawyer welcomes reader feedback. Letters are published with their sender's consent and may be edited for clarity, length, or grammar. The opinions expressed are those of the sender and do not necessarily represent those of the CBA or the sender's employer. Please send feedback to Susie Klein at sklein@cobar.org or contact article authors directly.

---

In re Real Estate Law, December 2023

Dear Editors:

Amy Brimah's article in the December issue of Colorado Lawyer ("The Future of Exclusionary Zoning and Land Use in Colorado") is groundbreaking—something rarely seen in legal writing. It is a really important piece that needs to be widely shared with people who, in this next legislative session, are struggling to overcome the wall of regulations in local jurisdictions that have created the current housing crisis.

I want to pay Real Estate Law Coordinating Editor Chris Bryan a high compliment for accepting this article for publication in Colorado Lawyer. And I want to pay the highest compliment to the author, Amy Brimah. It is an extraordinary piece of scholarship and writing that will have an impact for years, because it lays out so meticulously the legal foundation of zoning, both nationally and in Colorado. This foundation will be appreciated by other lawyers working in the field for giving them tools to challenge the current exclusionary status quo.

Macon Cowles

Macon Cowles & Associates, PC
Boulder

Unleash your inner photographer.

It's never been easier to get your Colorado photo on our cover. Email kschuster@cobar.org for details.

COLORADO LAWYER

The advertisement features a close-up photograph of a smiling, long-eared dog with brown and black fur. The dog is looking directly at the camera. The background is a plain, light color. The text is positioned to the right of the dog's head.